Getting There:

Forest Roads and their Impacts to Forest Health

A Rainbow Ridge Forest Stewardship Workshop

JULY 24TH, 2013 @ 5:00P.M.

LOCATION: SISSON MUSEUM

Forest roads are what allow us to get to that wonderful hiking spot in the woods, or help us to find firewood for the cold winters. They allow us to get in the forest to reduce fuels and improve forest health. But forest roads can also have an impact to forest health if not constructed correctly or properly maintained. This workshop we will learn the impacts of forest roads and what can be done to help us get to where we are going. There will be the opportunity to voice your opinion to the Shasta Trinity National Forest which roads are important to maintain!
